QUEEN MABELLE ENJOYED THE WEEK.

CHEERFULLY express to you the pleasure I have taken in my new expersence of the past week in attempting to portray the character of queen of the Elks' carnival. My duties have not been as armous as I was led to believe. They were made easy and pleasant by the encouragement, cour-Whittemore and other gentlemen of the executive committee, as well as the and deportment left nothing to be desired. By the Utah press, as well as the press of other states, I have received the most respectful consideration, and, I might add, more praise than I deserve.

The public, too, has been kind and respectful, for all of which I am deeply

I appreciate highly the efforts of Mrs. Stoll, mistress of the royal robes, in securing such tasteful designs for the gowns. They are models of beauty and perfectly satisfactory in quality, style and finish.

I trust his honor, the mayor, has no regrets for having entrusted the keys of the city to the carnival reign. I most respectfully hand them back to him and pledge my word that the city has not been damaged.

The prime object of the carnival was to raise means for the erection of the Elks' lodge building, and let me say in conclusion that my earnest wish is that their success may exceed their highest expectations.

DIRECTOR GENERAL STOLL THANKS EVERYBODY

HEN WE launched the carnival we were handicaped by the fizzle which preceded it, and we had a good deal of work to overcome the sentiment against street fairs occasioned by the "merchants" affair. But the carnival has quite equaled our expectations. I predicted from the beginning that we would have 10,000 people a day within the enclosure, and we have averaged that in the seven days we have been open. I am informed that it is the first time in the history of the state that an event of this kind has been finantially successful. I am proud of that fact, for I have not yet failed in any undertaking.

Personally, I am exceedingly thankful to the executive committee and the free swing it has given me in the management of the caraival, and I also extend the heartlest thanks to the public, the merchants, the queen and her maids and all who helped make the caraival a success. To the press all the credit in the world is due. Without its liberal support the caraival would have been a failure.

The fair has brought into closer touch two elements in Utah's population that have been apart since the state existed. That is a fact which every Elk, in fact or at heart, will appreciate. During my residence here, extending a little over a year, I have found the people of Salt Lake to be among the most honorable in the world. I shall always anticipate with the deepest pleasure a return visit to Utah.

I am leaving in ten days, with my family, for New York, and after a brief stay there we will return to Washington, D. C., to reside.

Newspaper Men Collect a Few Fines Themselves.

Before the lights went out last night the newspaper crowd summoned an Alligator court. Alan Love was chief justice, Frank P. Ellis was associate justice, R. Whitney was prosecutor, A. H. Dutton was recorder, Eddie Clark reporter, A. H. Tarbet was chief of police, J. O. Nystrom was his assistant and everybody present were their victims.

Thirty children from the Day Nursery and Orphan's Home attended the carnival yesterday and participated in a royal time, under the guidance of R. McKenzie, L. F. Harr, Mrs. G. Taysum and a matron from the home. The little ones were treated to candy and ice cream and most everything on the grounds. They were highly appreciative of the splendid treatment accorded them.

The climax was reached when the Kangaroo court was about to adjourn sine die last night. The last case, that of Mrs. Geoffery Lavelle of Spokane, who was fined $2 for coming to Salt Lake, had just been passed upon, when city Detective Sheets and a squad of policemen swooped down upon the court and arrested judges, balliffs, prosecutors, officers and reporters, all of whom were hustled into the bull pen, pending the arrival of the regular patrol wagon. A tremendous crowd had gathered by this time and the jeers and hoots were terrific.

When the patrol-wagon arrived it was with the greatest difficulty that room was found for the arrested party, who were driven to the station at breakneck speed, the route being up Main street to First South. It was a funny sight. Judges Silks and Pardee with their robes and wigs on, Joe Enzensperger, holding fast to the evening's court receipts, and the rest of the prisoners huddled together, all making merry over their misfortune. At the station, without the usual coaremonies, the prisoners were all taken that the prisoners were all taken that the station, without the usual coaremonies, the prisoners were all taken that the prisoners were all taken to the form of the splendid treatment accorded them.
